Letter from the President

Writing in the post-solstice stillness of midwinter, as the annus horribilis of 2020 comes to an end, I am reminded of the “wide gap of time” in Shakespeare’s The Winter’s Tale, and can only hope that what lies ahead will mark a turn away from tragedy towards a time when we will once again gather in-person, marvelously proximate and real, like so many frozen statues brought back to life. Although I cannot imagine how the world will have changed by then, I hope each of us will consider how we may contribute to the communal work of care upon which our survival depends, and to the careful work of creating community anew.

In truth, such work has been ongoing for some time at SAA, as we strive to become a more capacious, responsive, transparent, and supportive organization for all our members, and especially those who are most vulnerable in these uncertain times. Our organization has always sought to keep dues and fees low, and this year we introduced a zero-dollar membership level, and extended the reduced conference fees offered to graduate students to contingent faculty, retirees, and independent scholars (waived for all who applied for travel grants). Our website now provides easier access to resources, including announcements for faculty positions, fellowships, and conferences; calls for papers; antiracist pedagogical resources; listings of virtual events of interest to members; and profiles of how Shakespeare-related organizations have coped with the challenges of COVID. To enhance transparency, ongoing initiatives in the planning phase are now reported to members in a spring letter from the President, following the annual Trustee meetings, reprising key themes addressed and reflecting on the wellbeing of our organization; and the June bulletin now includes a financial overview to provide a clear picture of our sources of income and areas of expenditure.

The Bylaws Committee led by Rebecca Bushnell (2015 SAA President), now in its second year, continues to work on short and long-term recommendations for governance structures appropriate to an organization that has nearly tripled its membership over the past two decades, addressing important issues such as the size and diversity of the Board of Trustees; the length of terms for Trustees and Officers; and the need for new positions, such as that of Secretary and Treasurer. Following a recommendation made by the committee last year, the SAA has appointed its first Financial Advisor, Melody Fetske, CFO Emerita of the Folger Shakespeare Library, unanimously recommended by a search committee chaired by Gail Kern Paster (2004 SAA President). Together with the Bylaws Committee, and with input from the 2015 Ad Hoc Committee on Sexual Harassment, the Trustees are also working on improved structures for responding to complaints of sexual and other forms of harassment, including an ombuds function to assist with conflict mediation.

Despite the cancellation of our annual in-person meeting for the first time in SAA’s history last spring, the intellectual vibrancy of SAA seminars and workshops continued to flourish as the great majority were conducted virtually thanks to the dedication of seminar leaders and participants, and the heroic efforts of Executive Director Karen Raber and SAA staff. And who could forget our first, virtual “Alone Society Dance”? This spring, the SAA will hold its first fully virtual conference, and while nothing can replace the conversations and connections that a live gathering generates, we have worked diligently and creatively to develop digital experiences and content so that we may all remain connected. Over 700 participants have enrolled in 56 seminars and workshops, and we have an especially full and diverse program of panels that incorporate those rolled over from last year. There will be sessions devoted to professional development on a diverse array of issues such as publishing your first book, thriving at teaching institutions, becoming an administrator, and confronting diversity as and with scholars of color; a meet and greet with journal editors; and ombuds services and training on approaches to academic conflict resolution. Other highlights include a conversation with Keith Hamilton Cobb, author of American Moor; announcements of award recipients for the J. Leeds Barroll Dissertation Prize and two new awards (for “Shakespeare Publics” and “Innovative Article”); a Town Hall Business Meeting at which we will brainstorm ideas about the SAA’s future, looking ahead to its 50th anniversary in 2022; and, of course, another “Alone Society Dance”!

I am deeply grateful to my colleagues on the Executive Committee and Board of Trustees, and to all who served on committees, for the creativity and collaborative spirit with which you have met the demands of this year. We have accomplished a great deal together, despite great challenges, and I am confident that the SAA will emerge stronger from them.

Sincerely,

Confronting Diversity with/as Scholars of Color

This professional development workshop invites SAA members (especially graduate students, contingent faculty, and pre-tenure faculty) to discuss issues scholars of color confront working in early modern English studies and at predominantly white institutions. Led by Dr. Patricia A. Matthew (Written/Unwritten: Diversity and the Hidden Truths of Tenure [2016]), this workshop will provide SAA members with strategies for navigating predominantly white professional spaces and fraught moments of exclusion, of research and/or identities. Participants will be asked to complete a number of readings and assignments in advance of the workshop: to apply to join please fill out the application form here by March 1, 2021. For questions, contact Dennis A. Britton (shaxdiversityworkshop@gmail.com).

First Book: Logistics of Publishing

A discussion guided by representatives of academic presses and experienced SAA members covering the steps involved in getting a book published, ranging from early conversations with editors to making an index and promoting your published work.

Forum on Administration

Why take on an administrative role? What skills are required? What are the benefits? A group of experienced administrators will lead a discussion of these and related questions.

Meet-and-Greet with Journal Editors

Join the editors of several peer-reviewed journals—including Shakespeare Quarterly, Renaissance Drama, Shakespeare Studies, ELR, Shakespeare Bulletin, SEL, and Modern Philology—for informal conversation about submitting work for publication: what to submit, where to submit, and what to expect after you've submitted it. All are welcome, and early-career scholars are particularly encouraged to attend.

Surviving and Thriving at Teaching-Intensive Institutions

Leaders will discuss how to manage high teaching loads and large numbers of students; how to develop creative ideas for composition classes; and how to balance teaching demands with research and writing, along with other issues related to the specific needs of those in teaching-oriented positions.

1:00 p.m. to 3:00 p.m.

American Moor in American Classrooms: A Conversation With Keith Hamilton Cobb

Shakespeare teachers across the country, in high-school and college classrooms alike, have turned to Keith Hamilton Cobb's American Moor for its searingly honest portrayal of a Black man "standing on the corner of Me Street and Shakespeare." Cobb will join us for discussion of his play as a tool for the exploration of race in high school and college classrooms.

With special permission, time-limited access to a video of a 2018 production of American Moor at the Globe Theatre will be made available to SAA members; details and a link will be provided in future updates and on the SAA web site.

This session is sponsored by Jeanne Addison Roberts endowments at the Folger Institute and Folger Education in partnership with the Shakespeare Association of America.

2021 Practicum

Articles in Progress

This practicum supports first time authors preparing their articles for submission to academic journals. Authors submit an abstract and brief biography and are paired with a senior scholar with editorial expertise who will read a draft of the article and offer feedback at an informal meeting during the conference. The deadline for registering this year has passed, but look for future updates regarding the 2022 meeting in Jacksonville.

The SAA's Sexual Harassment Policy

The SAA strives to be an inclusive and welcoming point of contact for our diverse membership of scholars, teachers, and students from around the world. We take instances of disrespectful, dismissive, patronizing, or harassing behavior—whether in speech or act, whether in formal or informal settings, and whether based on gender, sexuality, race, ethnicity, religious affiliation, ability, status, or age—seriously. Those who are the targets of harassment should not feel unheard or unassisted.

Definitions

Sexual harassment is behavior that demeans, humiliates, or threatens an individual on the basis of their sex. It is unwanted attention that a recipient experiences as offensive or disruptive to personal well-being. Sexual harassment can include crude behavior (such as offensive statements, jokes, or gestures); dismissive or insulting modes or address (such as referring to a woman not by her name but as “honey”); unwelcome sexual attention (such as unwanted touching or repeated requests for dates); and coercion. Sex-based harassment also takes nonsexual forms when an individual is targeted because of gender or gender expression. It singles out some members of the community as acceptable targets and as unworthy of respect.

Harassment never occurs in a vacuum. Frequently, alienating behaviors including race- and religion-based harassments intertwine with sexual harassment. Working to discern, for instance, whether a comment about appearance is aimed primarily at someone's gender, sexuality, religion, or race mistakes how harassment can leave its impact on multiple levels. The SAA emphasizes the importance of adopting a fully intersectional understanding of sex-based harassment. Harassment not only sabotages the individual; it also damages the Shakespeare Association community by discouraging participation in the Association and compromising the free exchange of ideas that is at the center of our mission as an organization.

Respect

All of the spaces into which our professional meetings extend are professional, and the values of respect, equity, and non-discrimination should inform conduct in the seminar room and on the dance floor, over coffee, and over drinks. All members should aspire to treat each member as having an equally valuable contribution to make. For more, see the website.

Social Media Guidelines

In recent years, Twitter, Facebook, and other forms of social media have become a rich resource for scholarly discourse, opening up the conversation to those outside of the conference's physical space. However, many of us are new to social media, and the conventions around its use are still forming. The SAA's Guidelines involve three basic principles:

Consent

Recording devices and Twitter broadcast work and comments that have traditionally been relatively closely held. Audio and visual recordings of sessions should not be made or posted without the permission of all panelists or seminar members, ideally secured through the moderator or seminar leader in advance of the session. Any speaker has the right to request that his or her work and comments not be tweeted. Please ask subjects involved before posting and tagging photos.

Professional Tone

The SAA hashtag represents an extension of the conference online. Participants are encouraged to consider their comments to be public and to avoid remarks that would be inappropriate in other professional spaces.

Fair Quotation

Live-tweeting often represents itself as a transcript of written words. Tweeters should be aware of the potential for misrepresentation, appropriation, and removal of context. It is important to attribute tweets with a speaker's handle or full-name (e.g., @handle:xxx). Retweeting and favoriting remove tweets from temporal sequence, so it is best to attribute individual tweets, rather than just the first in a sequence.

The SAA Hashtag

The hashtag of the Shakespeare Association's 49th Annual Meeting is #shax2021.

Academic Integrity

The SAA thrives on the circulation of new and emerging ideas. The special atmosphere of the Annual Meeting derives in part from its distinctive ways of bringing scholars of all ranks and many kinds of affiliations together for a free exchange of ideas. Unusual openness requires a high degree of academic trust. Given the circulation of work-in-progress the conference fosters, it is important for all members to follow established citation and copyright guidelines in handling the intellectual property of others, including all abstracts, papers, and talks presented at the SAA.

Permission

Permission should always be obtained before citing unpublished work heard or read at the conference.

Circulation

SAA members should never circulate others' work in their own scholarship or teaching without the author's permission.

Seminar Abstracts

Abstracts, shared at the conference and uploaded on the SAA website, should be treated in the same, respectful way as papers read or circulated.

Social Media Guidelines

SAA members should follow these guidelines for digital distribution, in real time or in retrospect, of the content of panels or seminars.

Program Proposals

Proposals are now being accepted for the SAA's Fiftieth Annual Meeting in Jacksonville, Florida, from 6 to 9 April 2022. The submission deadline for all proposals for the 2022 Meeting is 15 February 2021.

Proposals are accepted from postdoctoral scholars who are members in good standing of the SAA. A previous policy prohibiting seminar or workshop leadership in successive years has been lifted. SAA members may propose to lead a seminar or workshop in the year immediately following one in which they have spoken on an SAA panel or led an SAA seminar or workshop. Dissertation candidates are eligible to speak in panel sessions but not to lead seminars or workshops.

Proposing a Seminar or Workshop

SAA seminars should open a number of pathways into a subject, recognizing that the seminar meeting is an occasion for focused discussion of written work completed in advance. Advance work in SAA workshops may involve readings, online discussions, shared syllabi, performances and pedagogical exercises, or other assignments.

Proposing a Panel Session

Paper panels, roundtables, and other formats for public discussion should engage topics of current interest and general appeal for the SAA membership. While the traditional format has been three 20-minute papers per session, the SAA welcomes proposals for other formats for engaging important ideas and issues.

Submitting a Proposal

Those interested in submitting a proposal should consult the SAA website for further information and guidelines. Members of the 2022 Program Committee are happy to advise on the crafting of competitive proposals. Please consider consulting them (via links given at the SAA's Program Proposals webpage) before clicking on the link to the SAA's online form for proposal submissions. For difficulties with the forms themselves, contact the SAA office at shakespeare@olemiss.edu.
